311 KRIDER'S CHURCH ROAD

late 19th century

Westminster vicinity

private

311 Krider's Church Road appears to have been built by C. Schweigart in the late 1860s-early 1870s. The Schweigarts operated a large farm on Bell Road. The house is an excellent example of the adoption of the regional farmhouse style to incorporate national trends of the late nineteenth century. In particular, this can be seen in the elaborate doorway and the ornamented gabled dormer of this two and one-half story brick house. The house also contains a one-story that wraps around the east and north facades of the house.
